More About the Removal of Shells

From Proving Ground

Here are a couple of letters in the public interest:

Mr. Royce Weisenberger
Deputy Prosecuting Attorney
Hope, Ark.

Dear Mr. Weisenberger: This will acknowledge receipt of a copy of your letter to the Commanding General, U. S. Fourth Army, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, dated May 31, saying that certain owners of land in the former Southwestern Proving Ground area have been permitting individuals to remove shells and other dangerous materials, and requesting that the army send some representative to make inspection and give instructions so as to reduce the hazard.

A large part of the Southwestern Proving Ground was declared surplus property and assigned to the Farm Credit Administration for disposal. Since its authority was rescinded last June, the Farm Credit Administration is no longer authorized or empowered to take any further official action with respect to any of this surplus land, but it may be helpful to explain to you the procedure under which government surplus land, and particularly such parts of it as were considered contaminated were sold.

Every purchaser of such a tract had actual knowledge of the contamination, confirmed by recitals in the deed whereby title to the land was conveyed to him. Moreover, the deed also included a copy of the Certificate of Decontamination as part of the instrument, recommending that such contaminated land be restricted to surface use only. The subsequent use to which the private owner thereafter put his land was a matter over which there was no control. Yet in the circumstances he necessarily in that event acted at his peril.

In addition to that notice, upon delivery of the deed to the purchaser, he received a letter advising him that if he discovers a shell or other material, he should not attempt to remove or destroy it, but should notify the Army Division Engineer of the Corps of Engineers of Little Rock, Ark. A copy of this letter is enclosed in the belief that you may obtain suggestions from the Corps of Engineers if you have not already had action taken as a result of your letter to the Commanding General. Very truly yours,

THEO E. KIRCHER
Attorney, Farm Credit
Administration

St. Louis 3, Mo.

The following is a copy of the federal letter to SPG land purchasers referred to by Mr. Kircher:

Dear Sir: As a purchaser of land formerly used as training ground, gunnery range, ammunition proving and testing ground, or military maneuver area, with the possibility that there may remain undetected an unexploded shell, mine, bomb, or other instrument utilized for such activities, which was overlooked when the property was decontaminated, should you discover any material of that sort do not attempt to remove or destroy it, as it might be dangerous, but notify the Army Division Engineer of the Corps of Engineers located at 300 Broadway, Little Rock, Ark., and competent personnel will be dispatched to dispose of the material properly. Very truly yours

Shortage of Beef Within a Week Predicted

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—The threat of an early beef shortage in butcher shops — industry spokesmen say possibly by next week — increased today.

Slaughtering of beef cattle by major packers was sharply reduced for the third day in a row. The number of cattle sent to market in the nation's major stock yards also was far below normal for the third day running.

Michael Howlett, head of the Chicago regional office of price stabilization, declared there is "no obvious attempt to create an artificial shortage."

Without identifying the persons or interests he blamed, Howlett said:

"They are trying to force congress to eliminate controls on meat. They are putting their own selfish interests ahead of his welfare of the country."

Howlett said there is "nothing to indicate a longrange shortage."

Only 24,260 head of cattle arrived at the nation's 12 principal markets today. Last Wednesday was the Memorial day holiday, but two weeks ago 41,530 head arrived.

It was the same situation on Monday and Tuesday.

Prices at Chicago — the nation's biggest stockyards — were as high or higher than yesterday.

And packers bought only a handful of cattle yesterday, claiming they couldn't pay the high prices asked and comply with price ceilings set by the office of price stabilization.

Beef dressing has virtually stopped in many plants across the nation. Workers have been laid off.

Two factors have brought the condition about. The low receipts have forced prices up. The packers say they can't buy even the cattle that is available because of ceilings that fix the maximum amount they can pay over a monthly accounting period.

In Washington, Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told newsmen the shortage of cattle receipts and high prices was "simply an adjustment."

He predicted the situation will straighten out shortly. He added a national survey indicated there is a "comparatively good supply" of beef everywhere.

Rough Times for America's First Department Store — the Door-to-Door Peddler

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—America's first department store, the door-to-door peddler has fallen on rough times.

His occupational hazards used to be flat feet, angry tones and elderly housewives who would listen to him give a half-hour sales spiel and then say:

"Young man, I can't hear a word you're saying. I'm deaf. But whatever you're selling, we don't want any."

But today his greatest problems are local ordinances adopted by some 400 communities that ban most house-to-house salesmen altogether. The U. S. Supreme court has just ruled that towns have a right to do this.

His action shows how for the itinerant peddler has fallen in public favor and how the pattern of our lives has changed.

The Yankee peddler is as old as the nation. In the beginning he was a kind of traveling troubador of commerce, carrying his wares upon his back from one wilderness community to another.

He was a welcome figure indeed to lonely dwellers in the backwoods. The men folks would halt their work to hear his gossip of politics and high life in the towns. The womenfolk loved to see him open his magic pack and bring out his glittering merchandise.

Needless, thread, gay fabrics, strange toys. And after the ecstasy of bargaining was done, the peddler sat down to a big free home-cooked meal, and then trudged on his way.

Later, as he prospered, he bought a horse and cart and added a line of patent medicines. But he still was welcome; his visits helped keep people in touch with events beyond their own neighborhoods. And the hospitality of most households was still expressed by the phrase, "Welcome, stranger."

The peddler declined in importance as the country grew, as the railroad and the automobile severed the wilderness from the town.

DiSalle Gets Into Paper Price Fight

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Michael DiSalle, government price administrator, has joined other Washington leaders in trying to half price increases in newsprint by Canadian mills.

A member of DiSalle's staff, said DiSalle wrote a letter to R. N. Fowler, director of defense production authority in Canada, urging that the government there curb prices.

No detail of the letter could be learned.

Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) last Friday called on DiSalle to resist "with everything we have" an announced price increase in newsprint by a Canadian company.

Johnson, chairman of the senate commerce committee, offered to an announcement by Albioli, large Canadian newspaper publisher, that it was raising prices $10 a ton. Johnson called it an "unjustified price gouge by our Canadian neighbors."

About 80 percent of the newsprint used in the U. S. is imported from Canada.

Rep. Celler (D-NY) also attacked the latest Canadian newsprint price boost.

He told a reporter that he had asked the U. S. attorney general's office to investigate the price boosts to determine if indictments can be brought for violation of the anti-trust laws. He said he had also asked the OPS to "look into the situation with a view to possible controls and rollbacks on newsprint prices."

Celler expressed the belief that Albioli's price increase will be a "bellwether" for a general increase in all newsprint prices.

He spoke out sharply against newspapers and new agencies who have failed to "stand up and fight" against the newsprint price boosts.

"The newspapers and new agencies are a lot of spineless jellyfish for retreating so cowardly retaliation," he declared. He said he was "amazed that the otherwise courageous press has taken such a position."

The meeting last night, attended by about 16 persons, was a general discussion. Various committees will be named this week by Mike Kelly, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Iran Papers Want Quick Oil Seizure

Tehran, Iran, June 6 (AP)—Iran slanted up today on seizure of the properties of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian oil company, but most newspapers here were criticizing the government for not speeding enforcement of its nationalization law.

With representatives of the British-owned company announced to come here for oil talks with Iranian officials, the government at last exhibited a definite slow down in the takeover measures it had vowed would be carried out early this week.

As a result, most of Iran's press blasted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for not implementing the law at once.

The rightist newspaper Tolo declared the government's "actions are only a paper."

The leftist organ Bosaye Ayan declared Mossadegh's "unofficial, vague" policy is helping AIOC to postpone enactment of the oil law.

The newspaper Shahed, a supporter of Mossadegh's national front, charged the oil company with a "foxy" British trick because it said it could not get its representatives here for the mid-night deadline last Monday the government originally set for beginning of the talks.

(In London the British cabinet approved a four-man oil mission to leave for Tehran this morning. It includes Sir Thomas Gardner, one of the government's two representatives on the oil company's directorate. The British government owns more than 60 per cent of the stock in the company.)

Acheson Denies Appeasement Policy in Korea

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson denied today there was any "appeasement" in United States support of last January's futile move by the United Nations for a cease fire in Korea.

Acheson told the senate's MacArthur inquiry that the state department backed the move because "we x x thought that the sound thing to do was to vote in favor of this resolution."

The U. N. cease fire resolution ought to arrange an armistice and submit to "an appropriate body" of U. N. members the questions of the future of Formosa and China's representation in the United Nations.

Nothing came of the move because the Chinese Reds rejected the proposal.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.) brought up the matter at the senate hearings. He is chairman of the senate armed services and foreign relations committees conducting the inquiry into the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Russell asked Acheson for testimony about "the resolution that we supported that gave rise to charges of appeasement."

"As we interpreted it, and as we interpret now," Acheson said, "the plan would have restored conditions to their pre-Korean war status, to permit negotiation of a lasting peace."

"The suggestion of the representation of China in the United Nations had been discussed before that, and there was no reason why it should not be discussed again after the aggression stopped."

"Similarly the President had suggested the future of Formosa should be considered in the United Nations, and we thought that after the aggression stopped, that was the place where it should be considered."

"There is not anything in our action to indicate that the United States changed its attitude on these problems in any way, or that it would change its attitude in any of the discussions, but it was considered, and I think soundly, that if the aggression ceased, these matters were the subject of discussion."

Critics have contended the United States by endorsing this plan had risked a situation in which it would have been outvoted by a "Werent we moving into a rather unhealthy climate to discuss these matters before that (United Nations) committee?"

larger body, and indeed it would have been our purpose to have insisted that it should have included all of the FEC (Far Eastern Command) powers who are interested in foreign questions — at least those powers; there may be others, too."

"We should have proposed for discussion other problems also, he said, in addition to Formosa and U. N. representation."

"So that there is nothing in this resolution to indicate that the nations named were to be the only nations who will discuss these matters nor is there anything in the resolution to indicate that the two problems mentioned were to be the only problems."

U. S. Tanks Hit at Anchors of Red Stronghold

Tokyo, June 6 (AP)—Allied tank patrols today hammered at the gates of Choryon and Kumhwa, southern anchor of the Communist central Korean stronghold.

A tough and confident United Nations army "is standing at the front door now, hammering at the lock," AP Tokyo Bureau Chief Robert Munson reported from Eighth Army headquarters in Seoul.

Tight censorship blocked out the exact distance Allied troops were from the Reds' strategic Choryon-Kumhwa-Pyongyang positions. The Eighth Army reported gains of 10 to 20 miles, easy and difficult, in the defense of eastern front.

In the west, Munson reported, the U. N. had "battled all the way" to the gates of Choryon, and "not only were they not taken, but the spring offensive was touched off."

Then, the main lines were 10 miles from Choryon. Armored patrols stabbed two miles closer.

Wednesday night the Eighth Army announced U. N. forces rolled one to 10 miles nearer Choryon from positions north of Yonchon. And a tank patrol killed 12 miles ahead of the line, routing gaudies of Red fire.

Dispatches from the front reported U. N. troops drove nearly a mile closer to Kumhwa, eastern gateway to the Communist supply and building zone, and infantrymen engaged in sporadic artillery and mortar sniping out of Choryon's from topped foothills.

Smaller, more careful advances were made to the east on the Choryon-Kumhwa road, although Chinese there had pulled back three miles to another defense line.

"Heavily fighting" was reported in the Choryon-Kumhwa area, U. N. forces pushing northward, and in Kumhwa, Communist trucks carried off the remains of a sizeable ammunition dump.

Munson reported official estimates place 80,000 Reds on the battlefield. He said 120,000 North Koreans hold the eastern and western flanks, with 100,000 men in the center, expanding the vital triangle.

The Chinese were meted out depth along a 40-mile stretch of the central and western front between Hwachon and Kumhwa. The AP correspondent said the north Korean Reds were divided equally, with about 40,000 men were on the extreme west flank near Koryang.

Munson indicated the U. N. Army was trying to move the other Communist attack line. If it doesn't come the U. N. forces, the Choryon-Kumhwa-Pyongyang line will be fought.

The Eighth Army, Munson said, is digging in again, and "with only tanked and artillery ties lasting out at the front line."

"This recalled the Red attack on Van Phieu, a strategic point, that cornered the U. N. forces, and other premises. But the U. N. forces were not taken back, and the Red attack was repulsed."

If the Red attack again, Munson reported, the U. N. Army will take a heavy toll of the Red forces.

Nine Die in Plane Crash at San Antonio

San Antonio, Texas, June 6 (AP)—The crash of a huge C-97 strato-freighter plane has taken the lives of nine airmen near the city limits of San Antonio.

The four-engine craft plunged to the ground shortly after taking off from Kelly Air Force base at 12:45 p. m., EDT.

According to a radio station (KITA) reporter, the plane exploded twice — once in the air and again on the ground after it hit a filling station gas pump. The C-97 burned.

One woman in a car near the scene of the crash was burned slightly on the right arm. Two men at the filling station barely missed being hit by the plane.

First National Night Depository Now in Operation

The First National Bank of Hope today announced the opening of a night depository.

This will enable customers to make deposits after regular banking hours and on holidays. Besides being a convenience it is a safety precaution which will aid businesses that handle large sums of money when the bank is closed.

The depository is located at the front of the building at the left of the door. All a customer has to do is to push his deposit through the small door and a chute carries it to a safe.

When the bank opens for business, deposits will be checked and slips can either be mailed or picked up by the depositor.

Price War Spreads, N. Y. Is Normal

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Ripples from New York's boiling price war spread today but shopping at the center of it returned to near normal. Only slightly more than the usual number of customers were in the big department stores in New York during the opening hours. And many of these, in contrast to the frantic bargain grabbers of previous days, quietly sought out advertised "pre-father's day" bargains. Stores extended price cuts to some previously untouched items. The specific brands of men's suits and kitchen appliances that had whipped up the early buying rush still were unavailable. Price cutting spread into Kentucky today with department stores in Louisville and Lexington offering 10 to 30 per cent reductions on some 1,600 items formerly sold only at "fair trade" fixed prices. Meanwhile a challenge to the equality of some of the price cuts that set off the war here on May 2 was started. A neighborhood druggist, Adolph Rothbaum of Wadsworth, Wisc., has asked a State Supreme court judge to restrain Macy's, the world's biggest department store, from underselling price fixed articles produced and sold within New York state. His suit aroused immediate interest among attorneys of some

Hong Kong, June 6.—(AP)—All Shanghai cotton mills closed today, posing a major unemployment problem in that Red China city. A Shanghai translation service said the Communist financial and economic affairs committee ordered the closure until July 21 because of a cotton shortage. St. Louis, June 6.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall says rumors about a Korean peace are "strictly rumors." The five-star general gave that answer to reporters' questions here last night on the Korean situation. The general came here for a conference address at Washington university today.

AWARDED CHILDREN

Los Angeles, June 6.—(AP)—Donald W. Douglas, Jr., son of the airplane maker, has been awarded legal custody of his two daughters. Douglas has accused his former wife, Mrs. Molly Douglas, of being an unfit parent on the ground she drank to excess. She had been given custody at the time of the divorce two years ago. The court accused the warring parents of using the children as pawns "for selfish reasons." The ruling yesterday said that although Mrs. Douglas was sincere when she joined Alcoholics Anonymous last November, her divorced husband "is better able from the economic point of view to take care of the children."

Price War Spreads, N. Y. Is Normal

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Ripples from New York's boiling price war spread today but shopping at the center of it returned to near normal. Only slightly more than the usual number of customers were in the big department stores in New York during the opening hours. And many of these, in contrast to the frantic bargain grabbers of previous days, quietly sought out advertised "pre-father's day" bargains. Stores extended price cuts to some previously untouched items. The specific brands of men's suits and kitchen appliances that had whipped up the early buying rush still were unavailable. Price cutting spread into Kentucky today with department stores in Louisville and Lexington offering 10 to 30 per cent reductions on some 1,600 items formerly sold only at "fair trade" fixed prices. Meanwhile a challenge to the equality of some of the price cuts that set off the war here on May 2 was started. A neighborhood druggist, Adolph Rothbaum of Wadsworth, Wisc., has asked a State Supreme court judge to restrain Macy's, the world's biggest department store, from underselling price fixed articles produced and sold within New York state. His suit aroused immediate interest among attorneys of some

AWARDED CHILDREN

Los Angeles, June 6.—(AP)—Donald W. Douglas, Jr., son of the airplane maker, has been awarded legal custody of his two daughters. Douglas has accused his former wife, Mrs. Molly Douglas, of being an unfit parent on the ground she drank to excess. She had been given custody at the time of the divorce two years ago. The court accused the warring parents of using the children as pawns "for selfish reasons." The ruling yesterday said that although Mrs. Douglas was sincere when she joined Alcoholics Anonymous last November, her divorced husband "is better able from the economic point of view to take care of the children."

Miss Truman Eases Up on Sightseeing

London, June —(P)—Margaret Truman eased up on sightseeing today in favor of Shaw and Shakespeare.

A theatergoing spree was scheduled to take her to a matinee of the Bard's "Antony and Cleopatra", and in the evening she will see Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra". Both productions star the husband and wife team of Sir Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh.

Miss Truman was at the theater last night. She attended a performance of "Waters of the Moon", a drama of English life on the murky southern moorlands. She was accompanied by her traveling companion, Miss Reathel Odum.

The "girl from the White House," as the British press refers to her, lived up to her father's pet name of "Miss Chatterbox" during her visit to the house of commons yesterday.

The President's daughter whispered questions and comments to Mrs. Walter Gifford, wife of the U. S. ambassador, throughout the question hour which preceded a routine business session of the house. Earlier she had lunched with the speaker of the house, Col. Douglas Clifton Brown, on Maryland chicken and American-style fried potatoes.

Margaret was gently nudged off the front pages of London's popular press today by the ceremonial arrival at Buckingham palace of a royal visitor — King Hakan VII of Norway.

Only the widely-circulated Daily Mail kept faith with the President's vacationing daughter — and even it moved her to an inside page.

Slav Envoy Must Leave Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, June —(P)—Yugoslav Charge d'Affaires Tinko Denovski has been given 24 hours to get out of Hungary, a government communique said last night.

The order apparently stems from a diplomatic clash between the Yugoslav and Hungarian governments which began with a street fight in Belgrade last March. The Hungarians claim that during the brawl Istvan Harabuc, Hungarian Charge d'Affaires in Yugoslavia, was beaten and injured by Yugoslav secret police.

The communique said Hungary had demanded satisfaction but that a Yugoslav note of June 2 "repeated the gross lies spread by the Yugoslav press and radio about the affair."

The Yugoslav note "falsified the facts" the communique said, and as a result Denovski was ordered to leave Hungary.

One accidental death occurs approximately every five minutes in the United States.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Ignores Boys

Dear Dorothy Dix: My friend Sue and I are both 15-year-old girls but I am very worried about her. She doesn't go with boys and doesn't really seem to care about them. I'm it usually natural for a girl her age to have some interest in boys? She makes wonderful marks in school, and is very well liked. After school she goes home, helps her mother and for pastime reads, plays baseball or makes airplane models with her brother. She says all these things are fun and a whole lot more interesting than trying to attract the attention of every Tom, Dick and Harry. Is there anything I could say to make her want to be popular with boys? Sue is very popular with younger boys, who like to play ball with her and often ask her to help with their lessons. But for boys her own age or older she has no use.

Answer: It is possible, Janet that I get a touch of envy here because Sue is so happy and contented with her way of life and you are so befuddled in your efforts to win the attentions of your various Toms, Dicks and Harrys? While it is true that most fifteen-year-old girls like to be popular with boys, and have dates there are some who take a little longer to reach this state. Their teen years are just spentavoring life to its limit and not being disturbed by emotional upheavals.

She's Happy
Sue's lot is a happy one, never fear! She does the things she likes without worrying about the approval of a boy. At the day's end she goes to bed, tired from a vigorous game of baseball, and drops right off to dreamless slumber instead of lying awake half the night wondering whether Jim's smile was really directed at her today or was a friendly gesture for the whole group. And why didn't Bob call tonight? And will Jack offer to take her to the class dance next month? All this turmoil is not for her—and fortunate is she that it is not.

Sue's day for popularity will come and when it does—watch out for you! You can't force it. Her natural manner, good companionship and sportsmanship may lure all your beaux away. The rosiest on her cheeks and lipish, coming from vigorous outdoor exercises, will put to shame the rouge and lipstick that other girls need for color.

Instead of wondering what you can do to make Sue think of boys more, see if you can't get a little advice from her on how to make good marks.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How much have children a right to expect from their parents? We have a daughter of 25 to whom we have given everything that we could possibly afford and who is now in a position to care for herself, but she lives at home three months of the year without contributing one cent. Frequently has company over the week end. Does not help with the house work. Sleeps until almost noon. Goes out and spends the night and comes home the next day without one word of explanation. Yet she complains all the time that she does have the privileges that her friends have and makes the home very unpleasant with her continual nagging. She is in fine health and has a good position nine months of the year. Would be best for her to stay some other place or shall we permit her to stay here and continue to disrespect the home and all that we hold dear?

A BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER

Answer: When parents have reared and educated children and fitted them to make their own living they have done all that should be expected of them. It is up to the children then to take care of themselves. Even a bird has sense enough to push its young out of the home nest and make it use its own wings and grub for itself. If your daughter makes herself unpleasant as a guest in your house, make her get another place to live. It will be better for you both. Perhaps, if she knew that being respectful to her parents and keeping a civil tongue in her head would save her the price of a board bill, she would make herself more agreeable.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 14 years old and like a boy who is 16. My parents heard from a friend that this boy drinks, smokes and swears. My parents don't think it right for me to like him. They have never seen him do any of these things, so do you think I should believe them?

BETTINA
Answer: "Where there's smoke there's fire." Bettina, and your parents' knowledge is undoubtedly right—at least to a certain extent. And in matters as serious as this even if a portion of the gossip is true, the boy is no fit friend for you. Being gossiped in by any one of the pursuing you mention should put him beyond the pale of your friendship for good. There are plenty of nice boys around. Pick one of them for a friend.

Purchasing Law Meets Opposition

Little Rock, June —(P)—Opponents of the controversial new state purchasing law concentrated their efforts today on a last minute campaign aimed at knocking the props from under the measure.

Led by anti administration forces, the opponents want the bill made imperative until the people have a chance to vote on it in the 1932 general election. They have urged the enactment of the bill be referred to the general assembly.

New Florida Election Law Approved

Tallahassee, Fla., June —(P)—A legislative act designed to give the "poor man" a chance to run an honest race in Florida had been signed into law.

Democratic Gov. Fuller Warren yesterday signed the act banning campaign contributions from officers, directors and supervisory employees of race tracks, licensed liquor establishments and public utilities companies.

It limits contributions by all others to $1,000 each and requires all candidates to establish central campaign fund bank deposits in charge of certified campaign treasurers and to clear all monies through them.

Candidates for governor and United States senator must make detailed expenditure reports every Monday morning during the campaign. Other candidates must make them monthly.

"As long as this law is enforced and I'm going to see that it is enforced while I am governor—a poor man in Florida will be able to run an honest race to save the people without having the office bought away from him by the big money crowd," Warren said.

Warren's own heavy campaign expenditures in the 1928 primary drew criticism before the recent legislature passed the new law. A wealthy citrus grower told the Kefauver senate ethics investigating committee that he and two others contributed more than $400,000 to Warren's campaign.

Papagos Definitely Out in Greece

Athens, Greece, June —(P)—Chances that Field Marshal Alexander Papagos will return as chief of Greece's armed forces diminished last night. The Americans want him back—but Greek King Paul doesn't.

Premier Sophocles Venizelos said earlier yesterday there was a 50-50 chance Papagos would resume his command, but informed sources said last night the king had stiffened his attitude against the resigned field marshal.

Papagos, who became an American favorite by forming the armed force which defeated the Commun-

FAILED TO APPEAR

Los Angeles, June —(P)—Actress Joanne Dru's lawyers have asked for a court citation for contempt against Crooner Dick Haymes because he failed to appear yesterday by a deposition hearing.

Miss Dru, Haymes' former wife, is suing him for $33,830, alleging that he promised to pay the state and federal taxes under terms of a $4 pre-divorce property agreement.

Miss Dru is now married to Actor John Ireland; Haymes to the former Nora Eddington Flynn.

King's court staff of 30 officials offered their resignations early yesterday. The monarch refused to accept them, but thanked his aides for their devotion.

Premier Venizelos said last night he believed Paurfyot would fall in his efforts to mediate between the king and Papagos.

U. S. Defends Tideland Seizure

Washington, June —(P)—Two cabinet members told congress today that defense needs for petroleum make it imperative that the federal government be given control of the oil producing areas beneath the marginal seas.

Attorney General J. Howard McGrath and Secretary of Interior Oscar L. Chapman testified at a hearing before the subcommittee on the oil and gas industry of the Senate Committee on the Interior and Insular Affairs.

Both cabinet members testified they support legislation giving the federal government only temporary control until the state-versus-federal government controversy is permanently settled.

"The issue before you," testified McGrath, "is whether the tremendously valuable petroleum resources of the submerged ocean areas are to be irreversibly surrendered to a few states or are to be retained and developed by the United States for the benefit of all of the people."

He referred to known deposits off the coasts of California, Texas and Louisiana.

Bradley Pleased With Progress

Paris, June — (AP) — General Omar N. Bradley declared today he was pleased with the performance of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic army headquarters.

But he added, there remains a gap that must be filled between ready plans and ready forces.

Bradley made this declaration in a statement issued at shape headquarters shortly before he was to leave by air for London to continue consultations with the two leading countries on the European side of the Atlantic pact.

"I have been most favorably impressed by the splendid job of organization and planning by Gen. Eisenhower and the members of his Shape staff, representing the 12 nations," Bradley said.

"They have a plan for a strong and adequate defense of Europe. What we need now are the forces that this plan calls for. They have been very frank about the gap that must still be filled between ready plans and ready forces.
